ELEVATORS/ESCALATORS IN THE NEWS

Three hours trapped in downtown elevator

Thursday night September 24, 2015 around 5:30 p.m. an elevator became immovable between the third and fourth floors with a man trapped inside. The building he was trapped in was located in downtown Chicago at 30 S. Wacker Dr. The entrapment lasted for over three hours before he was rescued by fire crews. Chicago Fire Department Dist. Chief Timothy Sampey informed reporters at the scene that fire crews had to slide down a blind shaft from the 40th floor to rescue the man. Thankfully he wasn't hurt during the entrapment. The maintenance contract was with a private repair company and they were not able to manage making the car operational. SUN-TIMES WIRE
