Given a Sign While In Elevator

Elevator Install Relocates Bus.

Jason Van Dyke (left) is charged with first-degree murder, official misconduct and aggravated battery. Activist William Collway (right) hopes public pressure will speed up the trial process.

Protestors were cautioned to remain outside the Cook County Criminal Courthouse following a routine hearing for Chicago Police officer Jason Van Dyke on April 20th, 2017. William Collway, an activist wanted to emphasize the need for the community to begin putting pressure being that he believes the case has drawn out for 16 months now. Another activist Carolyn Ruff approached the elevator filled with Cook County Sheriffs including Mr. Van Dyke with a sign. On this 4" x 6" piece of paper read, "16 shots and a cover-up" in hand written lettering. The appointed judge was clear that any potential protestor seen approaching Mr. Van Dyke would be held in direct criminal contempt. Needless to say Ms. Collway was brought to the judge with sufficient evidence through the body camera of one of the deputies for the offense. Judge Vincent Gaughan informed her that she was not in the streets and he would not allow a violation of just civility, she claimed she did not hear the prior warnings. Judge Gaughan let her off with a warning. Chicago Tribune; DNainfo Chicago

Kevin Womac owner of Boulevard Bikes has owned it's storefront for 14 years. They are now being forced to move in efforts to undergo construction to the Logan Square Auditorium. Saul Osacky, owner of the Auditorium since 1987 has longed to install an elevator. This addition will allow there customers to access the facility with ease enhancing the historic ballroom. Hopefully the affected businesses can start over.
